SENIOR SOFTWARE PROTOTYPE DEVELOPER FOR THE HTC VIVE HEADSET

"We're about to open up a whole new world of experiences – not just in gaming, but in other areas like the film industry. What will the new movie experience be like? Can you walk around inside a scene? I hope that films can become more like games, where people go from being a passive observer to becoming active, with their actions changing the scene and characters."

Glossary

Cost of Attendance (COA): The total amount (not including grants and scholarships) that it will cost you to go to school during the 2022–23 school year. COA includes tuition and fees; housing and meals; and allowances for books, supplies, transportation, loan fees, and dependent care. It also includes miscellaneous and personal expenses, such as an allowance for the rental or purchase of a personal computer; costs related to a disability; and reasonable costs for eligible study-abroad programs. For students attending less than half-time, the COA includes tuition and fees; an allowance for books, supplies, and transportation; and dependent care expenses.

Expected Family Contribution: A number used by your school to calculate the amount of federal student aid you are eligible to receive. It is based on the financial information provided in your Free Application for Federal student Aid (FAFSA). This is not the amount of money your family will have to pay for college, nor is it the amount of federal student aid you will receive. Federal Work-Study: A federal student aid program that provides part-time employment while the student is enrolled in school to help pay his or her education expenses. The student must seek out and apply for work-study jobs at his or her school. The student will be paid directly for the hours he or she works and the amount he or she earns cannot exceed the total amount awarded by the school for the award year. The availability of work-study jobs varies by school.

Grants and Scholarships: Student aid funds that do not have to be repaid. Grants are often need-based, while scholarships are usually merit-based. Occasionally you might have to pay back part or all of a grant if, for example, you withdraw from school before finishing a semester. Loans: Borrowed money that must be repaid with interest. Loans from the federal government typically have a lower interest rate than loans from private lenders. Federal loans, listed from most advantageous to least advantageous, are called Direct Subsidized Loans, Direct Unsubsidized Loans, and Parent PLUS Loans. You can find more information about federal loans at StudentAid.gov.

Direct Subsidized Loan: Loans that The U.S. Department of Education pays the interest on while you're in school at least half-time, for the first six months after you leave school (referred to as a grace period*), and during a period of deferment (a postponement of loan payments). Direct Unsubsidized Loan: Loans that the borrower is responsible for paying the interest on during all periods. If you choose not to pay the interest while you are in school and during grace periods and deferment or forbearance periods, your interest will accrue (accumulate) and be capitalized (that is, your interest will be added to the principal amount of your loan).

Parent Plus Loan: A loan available to the parents of dependent undergraduate students for which the borrower is fully responsible for paying the interest regardless of the loan status.

Private Loan: A nonfederal loan made by a lender such as a bank, credit union, state agency, or school.

Net Cost: An estimate of the actual cost that a student and his or her family need to pay in a given year to cover education expenses for the student to attend a particular school. Net price is determined by taking the institution's cost of attendance and subtracting any grants and scholarships for which the student may be eligible.

Your "Estimated Net Price" is calculated based on the information you provided. This Net Price Calculator gives estimates of your cost of attendance and net price. These estimates do not represent a final determination or actual offer of financial assistance or the final net price. Any estimates calculated will not be guaranteed by the Secretary of Education, the state or the school. The school has the final authority on determining the financial aid offer. For the academic year 2019-2020, 76% of first-time, full-time students at Full Sail University received grant/scholarship aid.

While all care has been taken to produce estimates that are accurate based on the information provided to us by the student or user, cost of attendance and financial aid availability is subject to change without notice. Any future changes made by the Federal government, state agencies, or institution could result in a different offer. Also, any outside/private scholarship or financial assistance may reduce your aid offer.

Students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to determine their eligibility for, and receive an actual financial aid offer that includes federal grant, loan, and work-study assistance. For information on applying for federal student aid, go to <https://studentaid.gov/h/apply-for-aid/fafsa>.

Military Education Benefits do not require repayment and could reduce the amount of loans required to fund your education. For more information, contact the Department of Veteran Affairs and the Financial Aid Office.

The "estimated net price" shown above does not reflect self-help aid that may be available to the student, such as work-study or government subsidized student loans, nor does it take into account the fact that the "other expenses" ($6,055) include variable expenses that may be minimized if a student is careful in her/his purchases and spending habits, such as clothing, recreation and personal items.
